Practice Overview

Callum is a commercial practitioner specialising in disputes arising from construction, engineering, energy, IT, infrastructure and offshore/marine projects. Acting as either sole counsel or as junior counsel in larger legal teams, he is engaged in both international and domestic work and particularly relishes disputes involving complex engineering issues. Callum is a contributor to Keating on Construction Contracts and Keating on Offshore Construction and Marine Engineering Contracts, as well as writing for the Construction Law Reports. He has experience with all common standard forms, including the JCT, NEC, FIDIC, IChemE and RIBA forms. He is ranked by Chambers & Partners as an 'up and coming' junior at the London construction Bar and by The Legal 500 as a 'rising star' in construction.

Callum regularly represents clients in the High Court, County Court and in adjudications in his own right. He is currently being led in international arbitration. Recent highlights include acting:

- as sole counsel in an ongoing c. £3 million professional negligence claim against a project manager in connection with a failed restaurant project (High Court, TCC);
- in an ongoing multi-million-euro international arbitration concerning the use of a pioneering anaerobic digestion technology at a waste-to-energy plant (led by Fionnuala McCredie KC and William Webb KC);
- as sole counsel in a two-day trial in the County Court at Cambridge, following which Callum's client received a substantial settlement payment prior to handing down of the judgment;
- on behalf of a public authority in a multi-million-pound adjudication and subsequent arbitration concerning the authority's entitlement to make significant deductions from a maintenance contractor's monthly payments under a long-term PFI contract (led by Paul Buckingham KC);
- as sole counsel in a c. £1.7 million adjudication concerning a project manager's entitlement to payment of a development profit fee, decided in favour of Callum's client;
- on behalf of a shipbuilder in two separate international arbitrations concerning the termination of two construction contracts for state-of-the-art semi-submersible offshore drilling rigs (led by Adam Constable KC, now Constable J);
- on behalf of an investment fund in TCC proceedings concerning a multi-million-pound retail and residential development, in which the fund was successful in the Court of Appeal (led by Jonathan Selby KC – see [2022] 1 WLR 878); and
- on behalf of a public authority in TCC proceedings concerning unsafe cladding and other fire safety defects in residential tower blocks (led by Simon Hughes KC).

Callum accepts instructions to advise, draft pleadings and represent clients in relation to their commercial disputes, with a focus on construction and engineering contracts and associated professional negligence matters.

The case settled at the conclusion of the hearing, before the judgment was formally handed down.

- Appeared on behalf of the defendant insurer in a series of fast- and multi-track trials concerning claims by highway repair contractors for the costs of repairing damaged highway assets (County Court, various hearing centres). The trials included cross-examination of expert witnesses in the field of quantity surveying. Successfully obtained significant reductions in the quantum of damages awarded in each case (liability had been admitted, such that the only issues were quantum-related).
- Dispute Resolution Hearing (County Court at Southend). Appeared on behalf of the defendant supplier of building materials. The claim concerned allegedly defective paint supplied by the defendant. Successfully obtained a strike-out of the claim.
- Disposal hearing (County Court at Canterbury). Appeared on behalf of the claimants in a claim against a landlord for the cost of building repairs. Successfully obtained all monetary relief sought, together with a substantial costs award.

Successfully obtained a settlement of the action for a fraction of the amount claimed.
