Practice Overview

Edmund Crawley joined chambers in 2023 and has since developed a busy commercial practice specialising in domestic and international construction, engineering, and professional negligence disputes.

Recent highlights of Edmund's practice include:

- Acting as junior counsel for the Arconic Defendants in a £360m claim arising out of the Grenfell Tower fire, in a team led by David Thomas KC, Laura John KC, and Charlie Thompson.
- Acting as junior counsel to Tom Owen KC in a £100m dispute involving the recovery of money from an insolvent contractor on behalf of the employer.
- Acting as junior counsel to Tom Owen KC in a £28m professional negligence dispute on behalf of a housing association against its Employer's Agent following the insolvency of the design and build contractor.
- Acting as junior counsel to Justin Mort KC on behalf of a local council seeking declaratory relief on a point of contractual interpretation in a multi-million pound project to remove and replace the cladding on nine high rise blocks of flats.

- Acting as junior counsel to Harry Smith on a c.£4.5 million adjudication concerning the value and validity of a final assessment following termination of an NEC4 Contract.
- Acting as sole counsel on behalf of a structural engineer in a £145,000 claim brought against it by a home-owner.

Edmund accepts instructions to advise, draft, and provide representation at all stages of litigation, adjudication, arbitration and other dispute resolution process – both as sole and junior counsel.

Before coming to the Bar, Edmund spent a year working as a Judicial Assistant for Lord Justice Phillips and the Lady Chief Justice Carr in the Court of Appeal. Edmund also spent several months working for Scotia Group, an international thinktank formed to provide proposals and strategies for parties at COP26. Edmund was a Working Group Leader for a team which developed a strategy for Japan's Minister of Economy.
