Practice Overview

Simon Taylor is a competition and procurement specialist, recommended in Legal 500 and Chambers and Partners as a leading junior in public procurement. He returned to the Bar in 2012 after 20 years of practising as an EU and competition lawyer, including 7 years as a partner in a leading firm of solicitors and 5 years in Brussels.

He has a busy contentious practise, acting both for bidders and buyers in public procurement disputes and also provides strategic advice on the conduct of tenders. He has acted in some of the most high-profile procurement cases in recent years, including acting for HS2 in Bechtel Limited v HS2 Limited and most recently in the claims brought by Siemens in relation to the HS2 rolling stock procurement. He has also acted as a mediator on procurement disputes.

He advises companies, utilities and public bodies on competition, state aid and regulatory issues arising from disputes, transactions such as mergers or joint ventures and commercial agreements or conduct. He has specific expertise in regulated sectors such as healthcare, communications, rail and water.
